Project "Peace starts out small", Kids present their visual solutions in the Town Hall of Bremen

J. Böhrnsen, Mayor of Bremen

We give thanks to Bremen Town Hall and all our sponsors! Through our combined efforts we will create a building that is unique nationwide.

THE SOCIETY

Representatives of the following associations have committed themselves to the project "Tunnel of Peace - Bremen takes a Stand":

Alevist Congregation Bremen Bahá'í Congregation Bremen Bremen Evangelical Church Umbrella Association Islamic Federation German-Indian Hindu Association Catholic Church Bremen Raja-Yoga-Center Brahma Kumaris Soka Gakka International - Germany Zen Circle Bremen

Together with numerous people incrested in peace work.

The symbols on the left have been incorporated in the vaulted ceiling of the Tunnel of Peace with kind permission from the respective associations.

We are lighting a beacon of hope by further transforming the Tunnel of Peace and by events that promote tolerance, interfaith dialogue and understanding such as panel discussions on the subject of "Peace in Practice", cultural events on the subject of "Tunnel Encounters" and above all the school project "Peace starts out small" which is formally encouraged by Mayor Jens Böhrnsen.

After completion the Tunnel of Peace will remain a solid basis for the aforementioned projects.

Lighting a Public Beacon

of peaceful coexistence

Rembertitunnel: Before transformation

After transformation: "Tunnel of Peace"

THE PROJECT

The idea for a "Tunnel of Peace" originated as a spontaneous reaction by artist Regina Heygster to the terrorist act of September 11, 2001:

She contacted representatives of the different world religions in Bremen asking them to join in lighting a beacon of peace in public space by giving artistic form to the Remberti Tunnel turning it into the "Tunnel of Peace".

The religious associations interested in interfaith dialogue each send a representative to the "Tunnel of Peace – Bremen Takes a Stand (Registered Society)". Since 2002 the volunteers of the society, believers and non believers, have been working together to transform the dark and much used Remberti Tunnel into a bright and friendly beacon of peace according to Regina Heygster's vision.

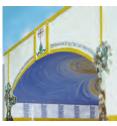

At the same time they have been involved in various projects to further peace in the cultural and educational realm.

Accordingly the project advances on two levels: structural and artistic redesign of the tunnel on the one hand and content-related projects on the other.

The city of Bremen has been long known for its open-mindedness and tolerance and this project is in keeping with this tradition.

THE IMPLEMENTATION

A first milestone was reached in 2010 with the redesign of both front sides of the tunnel:

The fronts and arches will feature symbols of peace from different religions and cultures. The design will focus on the peaceful coexistence of the religious communities as well as their uniqueness and this will be expressed in easily recognizable symbols and clear statements.

The vaulted ceiling, side walls and front sides of the tunnel will be decorated with color mosaics.

The artist sees the mosaic reliefs of different trees from all over the world as representing the deep spiritual significance they have had from time memorial.

They will adorn the front as well as the internal space of the tunnel.

THE PURPOSE

Our main vision is quite plain:

Flanked by content-related peace projects we want to transform the Remberti Tunnel into the completely redesigned "Bremen Tunnel of Peace", a new landmark for Bremen: An encouraging, convincing and meaningful beacon of peace which Bremen citizens as well as others can identify with and be proud of!

A MILESTONE

The representatives of the different religious associations and the Board of Directors of the society celebrate the unveiling of the first tree mosaic.
